

© 1997–2004, Millennium Mathematics Project, University of Cambridge.

Permission is granted to print and copy this page on paper for non–commercial use. For other uses, including electronic redistribution, please contact us.

November 2003

Features

Imaging maths – Unfolding polyhedra

The Clifford torus is generated by a family of circles which unfolds nicely despite the negative curvature of the inner region

Back to the article

Plus is part of the family of activities in the Millennium Mathematics Project, which also includes the NRICH and MOTIVATE sites.