

© 1997–2004, Millennium Mathematics Project, University of Cambridge.

Permission is granted to print and copy this page on paper for non-commercial use. For other uses, including electronic redistribution, please contact us.

---

November 2003

Features

Imaging maths – Unfolding polyhedra

The Venus torso is a highly complex shape to unfold. Surprisingly there exists an unfolding consisting of a single component.

Back to the article

---

Plus is part of the family of activities in the Millennium Mathematics Project, which also includes the NRICH and MOTIVATE sites.